

Transport Planning & Public Health Seminar
Towards a healthier Transport System for Scotland
Thursday 22nd November 2018

blogs.napier.ac.uk/tri/

 @EdNapierTRI

Venue:

Glassroom
Edinburgh Napier University
Merchiston Campus
10 Colinton Road
Edinburgh EH10 5DT

Transport
Research Institute

Part of Edinburgh Napier University

Programme

- 09:30      Registration & Tea/Coffee
- 09:55      Prof Tom Rye, Director, Transport Research Institute, Edinburgh Napier University
Welcome and Introduction
- 10:00      Dr Catherine Calderwood, Chief Medical Officer, NHS Scotland: Opening address
- 10:10      Dr Marco Martuzzi, World Health Organisation, Regional Office for Europe
'Transport and health in Europe: evidence, opportunities, challenges'
- 10:30      Dr Adrian Davis, Professor of Transport & Health, Transport Research Institute, Edinburgh Napier University
'United we stand, divided we fail. Let's work together!'
- 10:50      Questions
- 11:00      Comfort Break
- 11:15      Hugh Gillies, Transport Scotland: 'Transport Scotland and public health collaboration'
- 11:20      Pechakucha session (six slides max and six minutes)
- Dr Jonathan Olsen, University of Glasgow - 'The work of the MRC/CSO Social & Public Health Sciences Unit'
  - Dr Paul Kelly, University of Edinburgh - 'The work of the Physical Activity & Health Research Centre'
  - Suzanne Meade, Transport Research Institute, Edinburgh Napier University - 'Cyclists road traffic accidents and safety performance in our transport system'
  - Prof Catharine Ward Thompson, Director of OPENspace Research Centre, University of Edinburgh - 'Inclusive access to outdoor environments - landscape and health'
  - Dr Mark Miller, Centre for Cardiovascular Science, University of Edinburgh - 'Cardiovascular effects of air pollution'
- 12:20      Moving forward on transport and health collaboration
Facilitated discussion
- 13:20      Formal close, networking and buffet lunch